Year 2000 Disclosure

The Year 2000 issue arises because many computerized systems use two digits rather than four to identify a year. Date-sensitive systems may recognize the year 2000 as 1900 or some other date, resulting in errors when information using year 2000 dates is processed. In addition, similar problems may arise in some systems which use certain dates in 1999 to represent something other than a date. The Company has tested all of its operating and accounting systems for Year 2000 compliance and has been satisfied that to the extent know, there are no internal organization defaults related to the Year 2000 issue that may affect the entity, including those related to customers, suppliers, or other third parties, have been fully resolved.
